Summary of reasons for decision:

The computer image file is deemed objectionable because it promotes and supports the exploitation of young persons for sexual purposes.

The image is a photograph of a teenage boy posing in a sexualised manner on a bed. His pose accentuates his physically immature body and genitals. This image invites the viewer to regard young persons as sexually available and legitimises a sexual interest in young persons. Digital file sharing allows those with an interest in images such as this to easily transfer and trade the images via the internet, broadening the audience of such material.

The classification of this computer image file interferes with the freedom of expression, but this is an outcome that is consistent with Parliament's intention that publications falling under s3(2) are deemed to be objectionable. The classification is also a reasonable limitation on the freedom of expression that reflects the concern of "a free and democratic society" to limit the availability of publications that promote and support the exploitation of young persons for sexual purposes.
